Joint Meeting May Show
J. D. C. Technicolor Film

The annual joint meeting of the Jewish Welfare Fund and the Jewish Federation of Indianapolis set this year for Nov. 10 will probably be featured by the showing of a novel technicolor talking picture depicting the scenes in fifty-one countries (or former countries) over the world where the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee is actively at work.

The scenes from this movie contain lengthy shots on localities in Germany, Austria, France, Poland and Czechoslovakia as well as South American and the far eastern countries. The movie itself, "A Tale of Two Worlds," is a story of J. D. C. work under almost impossible conditions.

The meeting also will present the reports of the constituent agencies of the two organizations and will close with the annual election to vacancies on the board of managers of each group.

Preparations Are Made
For Largest Attendance
In Association History

SOUTH BEND.—This city was the mecca for B'nai B'rith members of two States—Indiana and Kentucky—as preparations for the largest Indiana-Kentucky State Association of B'nai B'rith convention in its twenty-one year history were being made here by the local lodge.

A program which would tire an army tank has been arranged, but delegates and others were expected to go home happy, nevertheless, as good times were interspersed with the hard work that is part of every convention.

Feature of the meeting will be the annual election of officers, which this year is expected to arouse considerable interest, and the banquet Sunday night at which Richard E. Gutstadt, will be the principal speaker.

Convention headquarters will be at the Oliver Hotel.

Opening with an informal reception at 8:30 p. m. Saturday, at the Oliver Hotel, the convention proper will be inaugurated with the call to order by Reuben H. Berman, Marion, president of the State Association, at 10:30 a. m. Sunday in the Rotary Room of the Oliver. Registration will precede this opening meeting.

Old Home to Dedicate New Wing Sunday

The Association of the Joseph and Anna Borinstein Home for the Aged will hold its first meeting of the season in the form of Open House at 2 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 19, at the Home, 3516 Central Ave., at which time the new wing will be open for inspection. Comprising two complete hospital rooms, furnished in memory of Harry Borman and Ben Hammerman, and a convalescent room furnished in joy by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shapiro, the new wing makes the home one of the finest in the United States.

An entertaining program has been arranged. Among the guests will be Guy Montani who will render harp selections.

The following officers will form the receiving line: President, Mrs. Samuel Dorfman; vice-presidents, Mrs. Herman Chalfie and Mrs. Phil Fishman; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Alex Levenson; recording secretary, Mrs. Louis Lapinska; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Jack Fogle; financial secretary, Mrs. Louis Leventhal; assistant financial secretary, Mrs. Charles Larman; treasurer, Mrs. Jack Dee; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Louis Barnett; social secretary, Mrs. Nathan Wienberg, and assistant social secretary, Mrs. Rachel Hammerschlag. Mrs. Herman Chalfie is chairman of hospitality.

Hostess for the day is Mrs. Samuel Alpert. She will be assisted by Mesdames Robert Friedman, Abe Schwartz, Joseph Mehlman, Louis Levy, Wilfred Borinstein, Jacob Hayes, Samuel Steinberg, Oscar Markun, Victor Goldberg, Julius Falender, Alvin Cohen, Leon Frankowitz, and Ben Cohen.

Messrs. Louis Borinstein, R. Domont and Mrs. Wolf Sussman will preside at the tea table.

On the third floor of the home a synagogue has been completed. During the recent high holidays, services were held there and approximately ninety people attended. The Torah was also given by Mr. and Mrs. Shapiro. The synagogue was beautifully furnished and decorated through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Borinstein.

Secret J. T. A. Report Indicates Even Germans Showing Sympathy to Jews

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

ON A GERMAN FRONTIER—While the Nazi press throughout the Reich is conducting violent anti-Jewish propaganda to back up Hitler's manifesto to his army this week that "the Jews and only Jews" are to be blamed for the German soldiers killed on the Eastern front, the sentiment of the average man on the street in Germany is becoming more and more sympathetic towards the Jews, it was reported here from reliable sources in Berlin.

The report states that many circles in Germany believe that return of goods stolen from the Jews in the Nazi occupied countries is essential to a decent peace.

The change of mood among the German people towards the Jews is reported to be the result of the introduction of the yellow Mogen David for the Jews in the Reich. This anti-Jewish measure has, according to the report, had an opposite effect than that desired. It has provoked sympathy for the Jews instead of hatred.

Christian ministers in Germany are now heard publicly. "Who knows? We Christians might soon find ourselves wearing the cross where Jews now wear the yellow star." Many churches have worshippers wearing the yellow mark. They are Jews who long ago adopted Christianity.

When Jews, wearing the yellow mark, enter the street car, not one or two people jump up to give them a seat, but three or four, the report states. Characteristic of the situation is the following joke which is now making the rounds in Berlin: A baby in his mother's arms in a street car sees three Jews with the yellow star. "Look, mommy," the baby shouts. "There are some more men with the Ritter Kreuz!" The Ritter Cross is one of Germany's high decorations. The young Jews in Germany wear the yellow star with pride and self assurance just as if it were really a high decoration, the report from Berlin concludes.

Arabs Resent Gestapo Plundering of Jews

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—The Arabs in Morocco resent the anti-Jewish decrees and are especially disgusted with the fact that the anti-Jewish measures are being carried out by Germans who have actually invaded the country, it is reported here. The Vichy authorities in Morocco are compelled to take orders from Gestapo agents who are to be found everywhere in the Moroccan Protectorate, carrying out mass arrests and generally showing themselves to be the actual masters of the country.

Czechs Demonstrate Against Anti-Jewish Measures

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

ZURICH—In spite of Gestapo orders, a wave of pro-Jewish demonstrations is now sweeping the Czech Protectorate to a point where the authorities have been compelled to take strong police precautions, it was reported here from Berlin. The report, carried by the Swiss newspapers, states that the Czech population, resentful of the anti-Jewish measures instituted by Hydrich, organized public demonstrations expressing sympathy for the Jews. Although dispersed by the police, the demonstrations were repeated and continue to spring up in various Czech towns.

Rabbi Doppelt to Write New Series for Paper; Old Series Go Into Book

Special

CINCINNATI—Rabbi Frederic A. Doppelt, of Temple Achduth Vesholom in Fort Wayne, Ind., has been commissioned to write a series of seven articles for The Synagogue, a magazine published by the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in Cincinnati on the subject "A Guide for Intelligent Jews Today."

This "New Platform" is officially known as "Guiding Principles of Reform Judaism," and came into being to take the place of the Pittsburgh Platform adopted in 1885.

Last year Rabbi Doppelt began for the same magazine a series of nine articles (the last of which appeared in the October, 1941, issue) on the subject: "Why People Pray." The series received much nation-wide attention and will soon appear in book form, with an introduction by Dr. Solomon B. Freehof, of Pittsburgh.

Danning On Market; Giants Hail Feldman

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

Danning, who has been first string backstop with the New York Giants for the past six seasons, will be traded by Bill Terry as soon as the hot stove leagues get into action. It's an old story about the feud between Danning and Terry and the animosity this year helped no end in keeping Handsome Harry's batting average below the .250 mark.

On the other hand, Jewish Harry Feldman who was brought up from Rochester to show his stuff in the majors at the tail end of the season was so good he made the old-timers sit up and compare his hurling to that of Carl Hubbell when the old long-pants was in his prime.

God Bless Us

WITH a lot of other Americans I have been feeling greatly enheartened about America these past few weeks. The strong heart of America still beats to the theme of the ancient ideals.

Until recently all who love America had been disquieted to see some of the things that were going on here.

The America in which public characters, such as a senator and a former national hero, were spreading racial and religious prejudice in public utterances, was not the America I had learned in school: "One nation indivisible with liberty and justice for all."

This was not the America of the Fourth of July and the Bill of Rights, the America of which we sing the spine-tingling "God Bless America"; not the America of the tradition. (The sanctuary of all the persecuted.)

These senators were stained togas that had been dragged through the abysmal slime of an alien hate. They were not of the America that cherished Lincoln's "malice for none" as an inheritance of its spirit.

This ex-hero . . .

Americans felt deeply troubled.

Yes what we have seen and heard these past few weeks is the America of the old ideal. Yes, this, after all, is the same America for which we used to raise our hands to our hearts in school as we saluted the flag: "One nation indivisible with liberty and justice for all." The senators hide, repudiated and ashamed, behind their soiled togas. The former hero falls into the mud from which he took a handful to bespatter fellow-citizens. It is a great victory for America.

Nothing that lately has happened here has been so heart-filling for Americans as the public reaction to Lindbergh's speech. It was as if America, suddenly finding itself invaded by a hostile force, arose to take hold of the emergency.

It was especially gratifying to observe that this uprising of Americans was not just a defense of Jews—none of that sticky sweetness that covers Jews with praises: "A great and deserving people," "Historic race," all that. It was a defense of America.

Americans saw that Jew-baiting was something dirty that could not be tolerated in America, a vile growth that could not be allowed to flourish in this fresh soil, a foul excrescence from Nazi concentration camps against which Americans girded themselves, as if Hitler himself had appeared at the gates.

Even the isolationist press (Hearst, the Chicago Tribune) was alarmed and gave out expressions of abhorrence. The American press, almost without exception, denounced Lindbergh's utterance as a menace to the cherished ideals of the American way.

In various cities newspapers interviewed large numbers of citizens: What did they think of this? Didn't they regard it as something most abhorrent to American institutions? What of America if this sort of thing continued, like some poison, to be spread through the American being?

Branches of the America First Committee in several cities were quick to disassociate themselves from Jew-baiting. It was as if a dead rat had been thrown into their house. They took steps to be rid of this foul-smelling thing that had befouled their cause.

Public men everywhere spoke up with hot indignation. They said this was a degradation of America even as it was defamation of the Jews. This was smearing America whose ancient pride had to do with its bright ideals given in the Declaration, the Constitution and Bill of Rights.

Indignation spilled over on recreant senators who, more cautiously, had been saying practically the same things that had fallen from Lindbergh's less inhibited tongue. (They had staged an investigation to prove Jewish control of movies and Jewish complicity in war-mongering.)

The senators felt ashamed and gave themselves elaborate absolutions. No! They had no thought of Jew-baiting, they said. Anti-Semitism was not in them. So painful was the stigma of anti-Semitism in their hides that they attempted to relieve themselves by pulling out the barbs and throwing them at their interventionist opponents. "They, not we, brought up this issue of anti-Semitism," they said with contemptuous disregard for the facts. (This, by the way, is the technique of Hitler himself. In justification of his crimes he has invariably said of his victims: "They started it.")

Only last week I wrote a piece on the question, "Can it happen here?" I wasn't any too sure. Yet I had hopes that were based on the free American press. I said if the press remains free it cannot happen here.

The recent manifestations against political Jew-baiting underlines my faith: A free press turned on the light and men caught wallowing in filth scurried, ashamed, to cover.

The decent people of the nation who would have none of this putrefaction from Nazi concentration camps had turned with disgust from public men whose mouths exhaled its stench.

The press had remained free against the force of powerful pressure groups in all the cities; newspapers stood fearless in the presence of a section of their circulations that acclaim Lindbergh and provide demagogues with the ear-tickling illusion that all America is applauding them.

One could feel again that this was the America that was greatly worth defending. The ideals of this America had met an invasion and had routed it. I am quite sure that we have not heard the end of political Jew-baiting but I am not afraid of it anymore. One is not afraid of rats so much after proving to himself that rats can be handled.

I am grateful not so much as a Jew but as an American who in 1928 voted for Al Smith for President for the sole reason that he was being attacked on account of his religion. To vote for him was to protest against the same sort of fraudulent prejudice that currently has made Jews its victims.

As an American, I give my poor, cracked voice to singing, with all my heart, "God Bless America."

With Jewish Students at INDIANA and PURDUE

SIGMA ALPHA MU

BLOOMINGTON—Two of the highest honors that could possibly be accorded to any undergraduate student in Indiana University were bestowed upon Fra Edgar Siegel last Thursday. Fra Siegel was pledged to Beta Gamma Sigma, business school honorary equivalent to Phi Beta Kappa, and on the same day was named to membership on the Board of Aeons, one of the school's highest student governing tribunals. Ed's brilliant record while on the campus includes an "A" average in his studies.

Fra Max Meyer also was chosen to membership in Beta Gamma Sigma. Fra Meyer left to serve in the armed forces of Uncle Sam.

The house was in an uproar from Friday night to Sunday. The arrival of our own now-traditional Fra David "Tiny" Straus III from Newark, N. J., who graduated with the class of '39, started festivities. The class of '37, almost intact, held its four year reunion in "the cellar of old S. A. M." while many other alumni joined in the celebration.

The alumni has purchased a plaque to be dedicated to Sigma Zeta men serving in the armed forces of our country.

Fra Doovid Barskin has been selected to play one of the leading roles in the coming world premiere of William Saroyan's play, "Jim Dandy." Only last year Barskin stole the spotlight in the all-campus "Jordan River Revue" with his performance and hit song, "Till the Jordan Runs Upstream."

Last night the house had its first major social function when the entire chapter and dates adjourned to the Cascades Park for our annual fall hayride.

J. Gittleman, Ann Rosenbaum and Sammy Marks, all of Louisville, Ky.; Saul Abraham, Fort McClellan, Ga. and Bernie Berkowitz of New Albany.

A formal open house to which all Jewish students on the campus were invited was held last Wednesday evening, Oct. 15, at the chapter house.

Dinner guests last week included Mr. and Mrs. Sol Schwartz, Rita Cohen, Dorothy Kutchinsky, Edgar Siegel, Bob Raphael, Ben Richter, Bob Linker, Marvin Vigran and Dave Pearlman, all of Bloomington.

PURDUE HILLEL

LAFAYETTE—B'nai B'rith Hillel at Purdue University has enjoyed a month of varied activities, including the freshman reception, holy day services, supper seminars and a Succoth dance, the Hillel harvest hop.

The Hillel now has a campus home at 123 Sheetz street, directly across the way from the Purdue Library. Mr. and Mrs. Walther Kornblum, recent arrivals from Berlin, have moved into the Hillel house as their home and are serving kosher meals for students who desire them.

Officers elected to head Hillel Student Council for 1941-1942 are: President, Maurice M. Udes of Pine Bluff, Ark.; vice president, Seymour S. Weisberg, Chicago; secretary, Lois S. Kraus, Gary; treasurer, Robert S. Browar, Chicago. Charlotte Braude of Chicago is chairman of the house committee and Theodore B. Novey of Chicago is chairman of social affairs.

Next Sunday's supper seminar at Hillel house will be in the nature of a surprise, which the program committee has entitled "Forty Minutes of Fun, Frolic and Fancy Facts," with prizes for the proficient.

PI LAMBDA PHI

BLOOMINGTON—It was homecoming last week-end at Indiana University and the Pilam house was the scene of much gay activity as old grads and alumni from all over the country checked in at the big white chapter house.

The Pilams were honored to have as their guests from Belmar, N. J., A. Hoffman, father of Pledge Julian Hoffman, and Brother Paul K. Bornstein, M. D. From Chicago we had Mr. Bell, father of Pledge Bell, varsity I. U. footballer.

Other guests were Mr. Moon, Bloomington; Brothers Bernie (Class 1-A) Rose, Phil Smith, Ed

AT BLOOMINGTON

Fraternalism, frivolity, and fun were in the air last week-end in Bloomington for the annual home-coming. Indiana may have lost the football game to Texas Christian but that didn't daunt the gay spirits of those just "down for the week-end," and bound to have a gay time in the old town that night. No Sirree. Eyes wide, mouths open, watching the cavorting of I. U. against the Texas giants were seen Mike Glassner, Sam Smulyan, Irv Talesnick, Betty Maurer, Blanche Schultz, Adolf Hecht, Josh and Jane Fineberg, Bert Kohn, Bob Hirschberg, Fred Tuchman (on his way home from Fort Oglethorpe, and looking as though army life were definitely agreeing with him), Stan Schwartz and hoards of others. This year saw a record crowd at Bloomington. Things have changed what with a remodeled Pi Lam House and re-decorated S. D. T. House but the hospitality of all the Jewish organizations remains unchanged.

S. A. M.

The usual S. A. M. open house supper Saturday evening was well taken advantage of, and reunions were heard and seen on all sides. Most sentimental of them all was the reunion made due to a pact made in '37 by the seniors in the S. A. M. house. The boys made a pact to reunite in four years and compare notes with each other then—but that was not all. They resolved to make it as similar to their last meeting as possible, and made a seating diagram of the seating places and positions of every fellow present. They resumed these various positions and postures Saturday evening and held a meeting which turned out to be a glorified bull session covering the lapse of the past four years. The members of this pact who returned were Julian Glazer, Sid Schecter, Dave "Dud" Cohen, Arnold Lynch, Henry Fleck, Abner Schwartz, Sol Schwartz, Alvin Cohen, Sonny Dobrow, Dave Steifer, and Herb Backer . . . those absent in body but present in spirit were Art Sacks, Stanley Valinetz, Irv Singer (in the army), Dr. Dick Trockman (also in the army), and Dr. Sam Richter. And it may well be said that these fellows really had a "big time in the old town" that night.

FOOTBALL

Real news was made on the campus Saturday morning when the Meds licked the p - - - uh, licked the Laws (law students) in a history-making football game. This is a memorable event for the rules of that game are practically nil, and anything goes; in fact, the fruits of two minutes' hard labor in the game for Bill Schecter, Med, was a broken leg. Which broke a few feminine hearts on the campus, you may be sure.

PI LAMS

The Pi Lams had an extra proud beam in their eyes Saturday at the game while they possessively observed Brother Eddie Bell playing for their Alma Mater. Other reasons for celebration was the news that Brother Bernie Diamond and his wife (former Toby Sciens) of Hammond were the parents of a baby girl; Hal Lieber and wife, of Warsaw, are expecting; Bernie Roth presented girlfriend Marion Steifer with a Pi Lam; Cubby (Al) Kosnoff is looking forward (?) to his June entrance into the air corps; and, the whole house is looking forward to the Pledge Dance set for November 8.

JOINING UP

1-A --- one A --- used to mean the first grade in elementary school to me, but now it has the special significance that someone will be joining Uncle Sam's forces. Soon to go are Max Stein, Bernie Rose and Morrie Bluestein. Sigurd Rosenthal was inducted at Fort Harrison last week and Milt Bliden is leaving for the Navy and Philadelphia this week.

MARX MY WORD

Back Home Again in Indiana were Ben Fisher and Bob Caresky this week. Ben had a guest all the way from Chattanooga in the person of his fiancée. Lou Finkle, the Sammy House's gift to the women, was scheduled to go into the Navy but is not retiring until around January. Until then, he is working nights near Bloomington, and days are supposedly spent sleeping in Bloomington. But MARX my word, he spends as little time sleeping as possible, and as much as he can at the Sorority House.

PUBLICITY

Stags and stagettes take notice: Take advantage of the good time offered you by the Beth-El Youth Group this Saturday evening at their wiener roast—they're offering a really super time for everyone at Noblesville, and here's hoping they get a good response. They want to stress the point that dates are definitely not needed to attend this affair, so let's see everyone there!

age. Classes, which are arranged according to ages, will be held at 3:45 p. m. on Tuesday afternoons, it was announced. The cost is 75 cents a lesson. Plays given by the groups will be put on the radio and stage.

J. T. A. Sports Writer Names Early Season Jewish Gridiron Stars

By MORRIS WEINER

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—From the rockbound coast of Maine to the sun-kissed shores of California, there are some 600 college and university football teams cavorting on the nation's gridirons in the autumnal sport that grips this country in a frenzy of hysteria. And no matter where you turn on a Saturday afternoon for the next two months or so, you're bound to run into a good football game and consequently a fistful of great Jewish football players.

The current football season is only three weeks old and already there have been some standout performances put in by Jewish boys all over the map. Hoopla reports pour in concerning Jay Fidler, the sensational kicking tackle from Brown University and the press clippings concerning Dick Fisher and Jack Graf, regular backfield men in the Ohio State lineup are nothing but big time stuff. Dick Fisher is a distant relation of the former Syracuse star who played some ten years ago and who now is a noted sports commentator in the East. But also on the Ohio State squad (and, folks, this seems to be the year when this Midwestern eleven seems destined for the top) are such stalwart linemen as Hersherberger, Steinberg and Schneider.

But name a spot on the map or a compass point that includes a college town and we'll come up with the name of a 1941 Jewish football standout. In the Northeast, Harry Gerber is a standout wingman for the Hanover Indians from Dartmouth. In the Southland, Leon of Alabama and Arnold of Mississippi State bear watching. On the Coast, Cantor of U. C. L. A. and Weiner of the same school should be honor roll material come the end of the season. In the Midwest, Timperman of Purdue may prove to be one of the finest tackles the Boilermakers have had in years. And so it goes, we could name you ten, twenty, even a hundred names to bear testimony to our words that this year is going to be a gala season for Jews in the pigskin sport.

An early season tabulation of some of our better players would include the following. By no means is this to be taken as any sort of an all-star tabulation. From time to time during the course of the year we shall add names and a bit of color on the boys who appear on this roster:

Center—Wermuth, Lehigh.
Right Guard—Cohen, Pennsylvania.
Right Tackle—Kindelberger, Pittsburgh.
Right End—Hurst, Tennessee.
Right Halfback—Cantor, University California, Los Angeles.
Fullback—Goldenberg, Cornell.

Argentina to Return 45 Jews to Spain

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
BUENOS AIRES — Forty-five Jewish refugees who recently arrived in Argentina on a Spanish ship and who are presently housed in the Hotel de los Immigrantes, the Argentinian Ellis Island, are to be deported back to Spain because the Argentine government refuses to admit them. The expulsion order is part of a protracted conflict on immigration policy between Acting President Ramon Castillo and pro-democratic Minister of Agriculture Daniel Anadey y Videla.

"Nobody who has not seen the Vernet camp in the Pyrenees Mountains can imagine it," says a London newspaper correspondent. "The poor, half-starved devils eagerly search the kitchen garbage tins for half-rotten cabbage leaves, carrots or turnip peelings. Rat-hunting has become a profession—and the rats are used to feed human beings. A fat rat fetches quite a little sum of money on the camp 'Black Bourse'." Not only do the prisoners not receive the full official meager rations—these are weighed out privately by guards who are also hungry—but they are robbed of parcels sent by relief organizations, the "Daily Herald" adds.

The Need For Spiritual Rearmament

Editor's Note—This is the month when Jewish parents are enrolling their children in religious schools. Jewish Education Month is being observed throughout the nation to emphasize the responsibility of parents for the Jewish religious training of their children.

By MARK EISNER

This is a time in history that stirs mankind to its depths. The Jewish people, in its long existence upon this earth, has experienced many such eras of cataclysmic change which have put it to severe tests and shattering strains. However, never during many centuries of Jewish history have Jews been less prepared for the ordeal and for the time of serious trial. This is particularly true of our generation of Western Jews, who have neglected to provide for ourselves and for our children, an atmosphere of Jewish spirituality and Jewish historical continuity.

There is no need now to account for our past failures, as there is no time left to blame those influences in Western civilization which have lulled all Western peoples into a sense of false security. The present need is for rearmament. It is a need which is now apparent to all believers in the tenets on which rests this Western democracy. For the Jewish people the need is greater than for any other people—to arm ourselves with those defenses which have stood our forbears in such good stead, over the millenia of our history.

Modern Jewish religious education aims to clothe the ghastly spiritual emptiness and lack of faith, now a characteristic of our times, with the brilliant raiment of Justice, Righteousness and Truth. It dispels and rots those doubts and suspicions which have been deliberately inflicted upon mankind by the enemies of the Jews and of all peoples who strive for these moral goals. Jewish religious education seeks to provide the spiritual and cultural needs of young and old. The classic moral laws, the Hebrew language, and the profound literature of our people, bound together by the golden threads of our heroic history, can be made to protect us in an impregnable fortress of defense.

In this grave hour I earnestly call upon all Jewish parents to afford their children an adequate Jewish religious education. I plead with them to enroll their children in a Jewish religious school. I ask this for their own and their children's welfare and for the welfare of the Jewish people and all humanity. We owe it to ourselves, we owe it to our children, to provide these armaments for our decent survival and for our spiritual triumph. This triumph spells the victory of Truth, Justice and human dignity for all mankind.

Cleveland Temple Drops Services Sunday A. M.'s

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
CLEVELAND — A significant swing back to old traditions of Jewry that may set a precedent in Jewish reform congregations throughout the country was announced here by the Euclid Avenue Temple.

Starting Oct. 31, weekly services at the temple will be held Friday evening instead of Sunday morning as has been the custom for many years, it was announced by Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner, who said that his congregation believed Friday night services have a greater appeal for the Jewish people.

Save For Defense; Ride the Trolleys

By using the trolleys and buses for their trips about the city, Indianapolis citizens will be saving vital materials needed for national defense. In addition, they will be saving sizable amounts of money in motoring and parking costs that can be applied toward their other needs.

Save Gasoline and Rubber

It takes a lot of gasoline to drive in congested traffic and the wear and tear of city driving takes a heavy toll on tires. By leaving your car at home and using the transit service of Indianapolis Railways, you will be making a contribution to national defense by conserving these two vital materials.

Save Parking and Repair Costs

You surely can use more money now that taxes are up and prices are mounting. If you will itemize what it costs you to park your car downtown, to get bent fenders straightened, scratched places repainted, etc., with the small cost of riding the transit vehicles, you will see that you can save an appreciable amount over a year's time.

Shoppers Avoid Rush Hours

If housewives on shopping trips will ride during the middle of the day, between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., they will make more room available on the transit vehicles during the rush hours for defense workers and persons engaged in vital businesses.

The Editor's Chair:

I spoke before the opening meeting of the Muncie Lodge, B'nai B'rith, last Thursday night, and I really enjoyed the experience. I ground away (axe to grind) at the State Association, and was successful enough in my contention to see the president instruct the delegates to do all in their power to bring about a real election in the State Association, and otherwise return the management of the Association back to the lodges. I pointed out that delegates at present have actually no say in what goes on and are of no consequence in the meeting, because there is nothing for them to do, and attributed to this fault, which is one and the same thing as the argument against cliques, the inability or the refusal of the Association to assume the duties in Indiana it long ago should have taken over.

Winning my point was really just the smallest part of the satisfaction of the experience. In the first place, the Muncie Lodge is the Muncie Jewish Community. The lodge's membership of 47, plus the four new members introduced that night, includes about all of the local Jews. They and their wives were there for supper, and whereas 20 tickets were sold for the banquet, and about 40 prepared for, actually about 70 were served and about 15 turned away.

But what I wanted to say was not so much the above, as that I met new people, and what people! Take William Freund. I am sorry now that he was so friendly in my behalf, because it makes it seem as if I have some personal design in writing about him. He's a real personality, if there ever was one, and if you know Bernard, his son, then William Freund is the answer why Bernard is such a capable young man. Then there was Lou Novick, whom I had met before, but with whom I had not had the chance to get well acquainted; and the new president, Lawson Jaffe, whom I thought handled the meeting particularly well considering that this was his first time in a public office. And was his wife proud! And then I met Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ziegler. The first time I had had a chance to meet any of the Zieglers although as you know their reputation is state-wide. (It turned out that Mrs. Ziegler is from Louisville, and knows my folks well.) ### B'nai B'rith Should Assume Leadership

IN VIEW of the pathetic inability of what is known as the present leadership in U. S. Jewish life to unite in the face of the recurring more severe crises of the past ten years, the failure of the B'nai B'rith to display a strong hand and take over the control its strength indicates, may become one of the tragedies of current Jewish history. While the American Jewish Committee as far as any place outside of New York is concerned is a paper organization, and anyway out of sympathy with the feelings of most U. S. Jews, and while the American Jewish Congress, is also a paper organization, although its views coincide with those of the majority of U. S. Jewry, only the B'nai B'rith has any support for its position. In addition, the B'nai B'rith has the respect and could easily have the support of the nation's Jewry, so many of whom either through the organization itself, or through Hillel or A. Z. A. or its other affiliates has contact with it.

Too, the B'nai B'rith would not have to solicit backing from the Synagogue Council, or the Council of Jewish Welfare Funds and Federations, because these groups are either already represented in B'nai B'rith through joint membership, or because these two most alert and like B'nai B'rith, representative groups, recognize the position and strength of the Order.

What is needed then is for a bold policy of moving forward and taking over the reigns by the B'nai B'rith, whenever the movements of other national groups become befogged by conflict and clash of personalities. Certainly B'nai B'rith has long been patient. The American Jewish public has long been patient too, although from time to time it will erupt with caustic denunciation of the General Jewish Council.

The Order has long been noted for its ability to sum up a situation and provide the remedy, although that action may not heretofore have been directly in line with its activities up to then. The Anti-Defamation work and Hillel were assumed as B'nai B'rith obligations, not so much because they were in line with policies of the lodge, as that they were desiderata that required attention. How well the Order filled these needs requires no elaboration.

Now then may be the opportunity for the B'nai B'rith to take unto itself the position its training and particular qualifications have been unerringly leading it to. The opportunity for B'nai B'rith to perform its greatest service for the Jewish people may be NOW.

An Irresistible Force

ALTHOUGH an honest statement by Great Britain would certainly relieve a lot of minds, Palestine's friends should not view England's unaccountable reticence about the Jewish National Homeland with too much discouragement. While every nation attacked by the Nazis has been promised restitution, only the Jews, that nation that bore from the very first Hitler's assaults, has been denied any word of hope, and the Jewish public is beginning to show signs of uneasiness about this appeasement attitude in a day of forthright realism and courage.

But the experience of the past few years provides the key to the situation. When there was still hope that Hitler would be hemmed into the borders of his own land, and even when his only depredations were Czechoslovakia and Austria, Palestine's borders, by the sea on the west, Transjordan on the east and Syria on the north, were overrun with illegal immigration, to the extent that while England permitted immigration of 10,000 or 20,000, fully 60,000 to 75,000 Jews entered the land.

In those days the number of Jews wanting to leave Europe for Palestine was like a trickling brook as compared to the millions who will seek a haven there after the end of hostilities. So that if England could not hold back the trickling stream, what will she be able to do in face of the avalanche?

The 5,000,000 Jews of western Europe will never be able to go back to pre-Hitler days, and the majority will be forced to emigrate. Only Palestine, as far as can be seen now, wants and needs them. They will go there.

When an irresistible force meets an immovable object there is a deadlock. But the boundaries of Palestine are not an immovable object.

Why Are Palestine Jews So Loyal?

THERE must be some explanation over and above merely practical reasons why Jews of Palestine and Jews who are even newcomers to that land show such loyalty to Great Britain.

Released last week from internment camp, where they had been placed after the explosion of their steamer, The Patria, 80 out of 100 joined the British forces. Then this week, 150 additional refugees were freed from the camp, and one hundred of them immediately enlisted in the Palestine forces.

Some 10,000 Palestinian Jews are now serving with British forces, and this in the face of England's contemptuous refusal to permit organization of a Jewish army on the same basis as that of practically every nation which has been attacked by the Nazis. Near East British forces are almost sure to see action, and promptly. Volunteering to fight in Palestine means exactly that. Jews are willing to die for England, but when it comes to England to permit Jews to live, she acts like an unworthy mother.

The Reason Why

WOULD it be vicious to inquire whether the change from Sunday morning to Friday evening services by Rabbi Barnett Brickner's congregation in Cleveland was brought about by a resurgence of religious spirit and a nostalgic feeling for the old Friday night welcoming of the Sabbath or merely a pragmatic desire to avoid conflict with Sunday golf and motoring?

Current Comment

Would Crack Down on Those Who Deliberately Go Away on the Holy Days—Have you ever met the Jews who make it a point every year to go away over the High Holy Days? Instead of affiliating with congregations, they betake themselves to summer resorts, and perhaps, attend the services which the hotel furnishes for the guests. But they do nothing to aid the established institutions; they indulge themselves with amusements and adornments, and are either entirely indifferent to the organized synagogue, or imagine they are honoring it by attending at an occasional Sunday Morning Forum. We should do our utmost to enlist some of the resources of these "slackers" on behalf of the year-round congregations, and the charities. One of the drawbacks of our free and liberal attitude towards the individual worshippers is to be found in a tolerance of this practice. It is time that the Union of American Hebrew Congregations turned its attention to this problem.

Fred Romer, 79, 534 East Maple road, who died at the Methodist Hospital Thursday, Oct. 9, was buried Sunday in the Indianapolis Hebrew cemetery following funeral services at the Aaron-Ruben Funeral Home. Rabbi M. M. Feuerlicht officiated.

I also learned that Max Soffer of St. Louis, president of District No. 2, will make a speaking tour of the Indiana lodges in November, for he will speak at a joint supper meeting of the Anderson and Muncie lodges in the former city on Nov. 5. Incidentally, I renewed acquaintance again with Harry Goldberg of Anderson, a past president of the State Association, who agreed with my talk in great part, although he took exception to my remark that the present State Association, as far as the members of the individual lodges were concerned, was a one-day convention once a year nothing more.

When an irresistible force meets an immovable object there is a deadlock. But the boundaries of Palestine are not an immovable object.

Why Are Palestine Jews So Loyal?

THERE must be some explanation over and above merely practical reasons why Jews of Palestine and Jews who are even newcomers to that land show such loyalty to Great Britain.

Released last week from internment camp, where they had been placed after the explosion of their steamer, The Patria, 80 out of 100 joined the British forces. Then this week, 150 additional refugees were freed from the camp, and one hundred of them immediately enlisted in the Palestine forces.

Some 10,000 Palestinian Jews are now serving with British forces, and this in the face of England's contemptuous refusal to permit organization of a Jewish army on the same basis as that of practically every nation which has been attacked by the Nazis. Near East British forces are almost sure to see action, and promptly. Volunteering to fight in Palestine means exactly that. Jews are willing to die for England, but when it comes to England to permit Jews to live, she acts like an unworthy mother.

The Reason Why

WOULD it be vicious to inquire whether the change from Sunday morning to Friday evening services by Rabbi Barnett Brickner's congregation in Cleveland was brought about by a resurgence of religious spirit and a nostalgic feeling for the old Friday night welcoming of the Sabbath or merely a pragmatic desire to avoid conflict with Sunday golf and motoring?

Current Comment

Would Crack Down on Those Who Deliberately Go Away on the Holy Days—Have you ever met the Jews who make it a point every year to go away over the High Holy Days? Instead of affiliating with congregations, they betake themselves to summer resorts, and perhaps, attend the services which the hotel furnishes for the guests. But they do nothing to aid the established institutions; they indulge themselves with amusements and adornments, and are either entirely indifferent to the organized synagogue, or imagine they are honoring it by attending at an occasional Sunday Morning Forum. We should do our utmost to enlist some of the resources of these "slackers" on behalf of the year-round congregations, and the charities. One of the drawbacks of our free and liberal attitude towards the individual worshippers is to be found in a tolerance of this practice. It is time that the Union of American Hebrew Congregations turned its attention to this problem.

el because I sort of overlook them.

I also learned that Max Soffer of St. Louis, president of District No. 2, will make a speaking tour of the Indiana lodges in November, for he will speak at a joint supper meeting of the Anderson and Muncie lodges in the former city on Nov. 5. Incidentally, I renewed acquaintance again with Harry Goldberg of Anderson, a past president of the State Association, who agreed with my talk in great part, although he took exception to my remark that the present State Association, as far as the members of the individual lodges were concerned, was a one-day convention once a year nothing more.
